THE THREE R'S.

Raum, Roush and the Refrigerator— More Testimony Threatened. The story is told to-day that Mrs. Roush, al clerk in the Pension Office, who, on examination before the special House Committee investigating Pension Commissioner Raum, said she had written but one letter relating to the Refrigerator Company, but who was not sworn because she said she had been sick and her head didp't feel just right, has since then told at least two persons that, as a matter of fact, she had been engaged for two months in no other work than that concerning the Refrigerator Company.

She now, it is claimed, wants to go before the Commissioners and free her mind by testifying to what she has done. It is serted that she will testify that she has itten a great many letters, perhaps 500, for the Refrigerator Company, and hat the chief clerk of her bureau told the other clerks to keep away from her desk, he object of the order being to prevent hem from seeing the character of work she was engaged upon. day a letter from the Secretary of War transmitting the reports of the Chief of Engineers on the examination of certain rivers and harbors for improvement.

He reports the following as not considered worthy of improvement: Gunter's Creek at Guntersville, Ala.; Chattahooche River, Alabama and Georgia.

The Mississippi River at and above Clinton, lowa, is considered worthy of improvement, by removing the bars north of Little Rock Island and building a closing dam. The cost of this improvement is estimated at $5,000.

Also a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury recommending the appropriation of $5,000 to complete the public building at Vicksburg, Miss.

Providing for Issue of Fractional Currency.

Mr. Kelly to-day introduced a bill to provide for the issue of fractional currency, and to increase the volume of money in circulation. It provides for $50,000,000 of fractional currency of the denominations of 5, 10, 25 and 50 cents; $25,000,000 of which to be 50's, $15,000,000 of 25's, $5,000,000 of 10's and $5,000,000 of $25,000,000 of which to be 50's, $15,000,000 of 25's, $5,000,000 of 10's and $5,000,000 of 5's. This currency to be legal tender up to $10. They are to be redeemable as other Treasury notes, and when redeemed may be reissued.

Lower Fees for Registered Mail. Mr. Abner Taylor of Illinois to-day in-troduced in the House a bill to reduce the charge for registration of domestic mail matter to five cents in addition to the reg-ular fee for postage. The charge for regis-tering foreign mail matter to be ten cents.

For the Relief of Mrs. Kennedy. Mr. Richardson to-day introduced a bill for the relief of Margaret Kennedy, widow and sole executrix of the late John Ken-nedy of the District of Columbia. The bill appropriates $10,470 for damages done to said Kennedy by the Union troops dur-ing the war, on whose farm Fort Sedg-wick stood:

For the Court of Claims.

Mr. Thomas to-day introduced a bill to refer the claim of George W. Quintard for further compensation for the construction of the ironclad, Onondago, to the Court of Claims. Mr. Thomas also introduced a bill to refer the claims of George W. Quintand and George E. Wood, as assignees of John Roach, deceased, to the Court of Claims.

Studious Conmissioners.

of Accomac County, was the scene of a church festival Wednesday night. In the audience sat Miss Sally Gray, who has won the hearts of many swains in that region, and on one side of her sat Ree Soot, and on the other sat Fetcher Lowis, rival claimants for her hand. Some time ago Sally's parents found out that she was engaged to Scott, and, being opposed to him, they succeeded in inducing her to break the engagement. Soon after this Sally informed her parents that she had transferred her affections to Fletcher Lewis, and that they would be married on New Year's Pay.

Accordingly, preparations were begun on a big scale to celebrate the event. Sally ordered an elaborate outfit, and the old folks set themselves to work to make the occasion all that could be desired. Wednesday, when the church festival at Ayres' Chapel was in full blast, and Fletcher Lewis, who was supposed to be the coming man, was speaking his piece in the programme on the stage, Bee Scott and Sally Gray slipped silently out of the church, imped into a buggy, and drove five miles away to Parksley Station, where they took the midnight train and disappeared. When it became known that they had flet, young Lewis wept like a child, and, in company with the young woman's sister, went in pursuit of the fugitives, but did not succeed in bringing them back.

Sally's mother was in Onancock yesterday revoking orders for dresses, cakes and other things ordered for the marriage that now will not take place.

TWO MEN KILLED.

A Row at a Caudy-Pulling Leads to a Fatat Shooting. Newrour, Ark., Jan. 2.—A conflict as to the ownership of a small tract of land led to a fatal shooting Wednesday night at Newark, fourteen miles from here. The parties contesting for possession were W. L. Magness and C. E. Perdus, The former rented the land to L. Cleveland, and he moved his family to a house on it.

and he moved his family to a house on it. A week ago Perdue also moved his family into the same house.

New Year's eve Cleveland invited his friends to a candy-pulling. Magness and a few others were present and their presence angered Perdue, and he ordered Cleveland from the house.

Hot words followed, and shooting commenced. Cleveland received three bullets and died in fifteen minutes. Perdue also received three bullets and died in the twenty minutes. Henry Perdue, the dead man's brother, was fatally wounded, and Magness received two slight wounds.

ably fatally wounded W. G. McCormick early vesterday morning. The men quarreled and fought. McCormick being the stronger, took away the depaty's pistol. Hubbell then left with friends, but some one ran up to him and gave him a pistol. He returned, and while McCormick was in charge of Policeman Lane, Hubbell shot him in the left check.

The ball ranged downward, passing through the spinal column, and lodged on the right side. McCormick is partially paralyzed, and chances are against his surviving. Should he die it will make two murders in this city during the holidays and several cold-blooded affairs in the counties south.

Cutherine's Queer Postmaster.

Moelle, Alai, Jan. 2.—There has been no riot at Catherine, on the Mobile and Birmingham road. A fight there Wednesday between two men gave rise to the rumor. A negro, who was said to be too ignorant to fulfil the duties, was recently appointed postmaster at Catherine Station. Since his installation, some time in November, there have been a great many complaints about the mails.

The negro postmaster went to Seima the early part of last week and since the citizens have had no mail communication. The pouches on the Mobile and Birmingham road for Catherine were thrown off every day and some six or seven had accumulated there. The citizens asked the postal route agent to go to the postofice and judget these tonches as they sould.

This morning Jewell was taken from the First Precinct station to the United commatest there. The citizens asked the postal route agent to go to the postofflee and unlock these pouches so they could get their mail. He said he was unable to leave his car and declined. While the train was at Catherine the fight occurred, which was not serious and has been magnified into a riot.

Saved by a Policeman's Nose. Boston, Mass., Jan. 2.—Had it not been for the acute olfactories of Policeman for the acute offactories of Policeman Knowlton yesterday morning it is altogether probable that a dreadful disaster would have been the result of the breaking of a gaspipe in a South End lodginghouse. The house, which is situated at Nos. 362 to 366 Harrison avenue, had last night about twenty occupants, and the night being cold they slept with all the windows closed. About 2 a. m. Knowlton, while passing, smelled gas. He at once broke into the house, and, groping around without light, aroused the inmates. All of them were more or less under the influence of the escaping gas. Some were dazed, and when roused could not help themselves. Others as soon as awakened complained of mausea.

The only dead body was found in a saloen in the corner of the block. It was that of a cat, but his suffocation showed that had escaped.

bazar held under the auspices of the parish of Wortley. The building used for the fete was the church school, adjoining the Wortley Episcopal Church. Part of the programme of the bazar's attractions was a series of tableaux vivants in which a number of young girls anality of the parish took part.

For this display a small stage was erected in the school-room, and to the right of the stage, and opening upon, was a room used as a dressing-room or green-room by the children, who had for weeks past been preparing for and booking forward to the event which was to result in such a terribic funds.

Inside this dressing-room, just before the dleaster, a crowd of leyous children were gathered, all the stris of the party being its light, anazy attire, and many of them covered in abilition with exten work as the covered of the children carried, daugling on sticks above their heads, lighted thinese lanterns.

The tableaux vivants then preparing was intended to symbolize the winter froles of "Mummers" in days gone by. The parents and friends of the children were assembled in the school-room, forming a happy, chatting audience, prepared to admire and appland everything said or done by their dear ones.

Suddenly shricks of terror issued from the little dressing-room, and the audience sprang in alarm from their seats, the nale portion of the assemblage making a rosh for the vechool-room stage. were horror stricken to see quite a number of children rush upon the stage with their costumes on fire.

In a moment the air was filled with cries of terror from the children and from the ladies in the audience, many of whom then knew their little daughters to be in danger of death.

Several ladies fainted, thus adding considerably to the confusion. The gentlemen promptly seized the burning children, threw them upon the stage and smothered the flames which enveloped their garments with the curtains, nats, window blinds—anything they could lay hands on in the emergency.

Several of the gentlemen tore off their coats and used them to save the lives of the panie-stricken children. While the little ones were being rescued, shricks of terror and groans of agony rang throughout the building, the horrors of the disaster being almost beyond description.

Finally suffering children to the number of about twenty were taken to the Wortley Infirmary, while others were attended to at their own homes. Up to the present there are four deaths recorded as the result of the disaster, and some of the injured children are not expected to recover. njured children are not expected to reover.

Fooled by a False Marriage. PEORIA, II.L., Jan. 2.—Miss Bertha Hamilton, a beautiful girl, 16 years of age Hamilton, a beautiful girl, 16 years of age, has sworn out warrants against Charles McGonigle and P. F. McCready, and both are now in jail awaiting examination. Miss Hamilton was very much in love with McGonigle, and he pretended to be with her. He proposed marriage and she readily consented. McGonigle then, on Christmas Day, it is alleged, induced McCready to personate a justice of the peace, and what was supposed by Miss Hamilton to be a legal coremony was performed.

The couple lived together and Miss Hamilton supposed she was the legal wife of McGonigle antil Wednesslay, when one of the friends of the latter let her into the secret of the fraud perpetrated upon her. She will prosecute McGonigle to the bitter cud.

The Grip in New Orleans.

The grip is prevalent in New Orleans to a large extent. The report of the Board of Health for last week shows the deaths to be 246, which is at the rate of nearly 31 per 1,000, or more than double the average death-rate for New Orleans. Only twelve deaths are reported as directly due to the grip, but there are 11 deaths from disease of the respiratory organism mainly pneumonia and bronchirds of the deaths are of infants or persons over 49. The grip is also prevailing along the Mississippi coast and the Mississippi River.

The question of the exact proportion of the tax burdens of this State borne by the colored people has often been a subject of discussion, but was never definitely settled until now. At the last session of the Legislature provision was made for indicuting in the general assessment of lands taken recently the colored taxpayers. This law has been pretty generally complied with, and the result will be presented to the General Assembly at its next session. The figures will not be footed up for some time to come, but it is known that the amount of taxable values in possession of the negroes is very insignificant compared with the whites. Tallyrand's Memoirs. In describing his departure from England for America, he tells the following ancedote of Benedict Arnold:

"Fortunately the danger we were running was noticed on shore, and induced some Falmouth lightermen to brave the fury of the sea and come to our assistance. With their help, we managed to reach the harbor. While our ship—all the rigging of which was much damaged—was being repaired, a rather striking incident added an impression of a special kind to the many I was to experience in the course of this voyage. The inukeeper, at whose place I had my meals, informed me that one of his lodgers was an American general. Thereupon I expressed the desire of seeing that gentleman, and shortly after I was introduced.

"After the mutual exchange of greetings I put to him several questions concerning his country, but from the first it seemed to me that my inquiries annoyed him. Having several times vainly endeavored to renew the conversation which he always allowed to drop, I ventured to request from him some letters of introduction to his friends in America. 'No,' he replied, and, after a few moments of silence, noticing my surprise, he added,' I am perhaus the only American who anecdote of Benedict Arnold:

He dared not tell me his name. It was General Arnold! I must confess that he excited my pity, for which political puri-tans will perhaps blame me; but I do not reproach myself, for I was a witness of his agony.'

His unfavorable opinion of Lafayette is disclosed in the subjoined passage:

"M. de Lafayette belongs to a noble family of Auverne, boasting of but little luster; under Louis XIV, the intelligence of a woman had brought the name into one removit.

Inster, under Louis XIV, the intelligence, of a woman had brought the name into some renown.

"He was born to a large fortune and had married a lady of the house of Noailles. Had not an extraordinary occurrence drawn him out of the rank and tile he would have been ignored all his life. Mode Lafayette had not enough in himself to come to anything, for he is below the standard at which one is reckoned a clever man. In his desire to distinguish himself, as well as in the means he uses, there is something that seems taught. What he does looks as though it did not proceed from his own self; he gives one the idea of a man following the advice of somebody elses. Unfortunately mo one will boast of having offered him any at the most important moment of his life."

"At Frenchman's Bay, on the border of the Eastern States, a violent storm having compelled me to stop at Machias, I questioned the man at whose house I was staying. That house was indeed the best in the district, and, as peoplessay in the compity, the landlord was a most respectable man. Having exhausted the chapter relative to the value and price of land, I asked him whether he had ever been to Philadelphia. He replied that he had not yet done so. He was a man of about 45 years of age. I scarcely darect to ask him whether he knew General Washington. 'I have never seen him,' he said. 'If you should go to Philadelphia,' I went on, 'you would be pleased to see the great man?' 'No doubt I shall, but, he added, with beaming eyes, 'I should very much like to see Mr. Bingham, the man who they say is so rich.

"Throughout the States I met with similar love for money, and often as coarsely

"Throughout the States I met with similar love for mency, and often as coarsely expressed. This country is too soon acquainted with haveries. The latter are, indeed, shocking when men can hardly provide themselves with the necessaries of life. I recollect having seen in the drawing-room of Mrs. Robert Morris the hat manufactured in the birthplace of the master of the house, carefully laid on an elegant Sevres china table, bought at Tranon by some American. Hardly would a European peasant have consented to wear such a hat."

No Danger of War-

Chanka Ber.
The British Minister at Washington, who is not in the babit of talking freely to the newspaper representatives, has been in duced to depart from his rule of silence duced to depart from his rule of silence by the recent reports that there was danger of a serious disturbance of the friendly relations between the United States and Great Britain because of the differences in regard to the Behring Sea matter. The Minister discredits the reports as wholly sensational and says that both countries, while differing on the facts bearing on the question, have a common object which seems eminently susceptible of submission to arbitration. In the opinion of the Minister the Behring Sea controversy is far less grave than the Alabama claims case was, which was submitted to arbitration without friction.

The Indian Bureau.

F. Remington in Harper's Weekly.
It does not seem necessary for me to go n to prove that the Indian Departmen on to prove that the Indian Department is not a joy forever. Very few people think it is, and most of those who do have a finger in the pie. They have never been distinguished for anything except Indian wars, and for almost every affair of the kind they are entirely responsible. The Northwest is dotted over with soldiers sleeping out in the snows of this winter-because of the mismanagement of the Indian Bureau. With an instance of this incompetency before their eyes nearly half of the time, people in the East ought to understand, and every man who in the West comes near enough to get the stench cannot but know its rottenness. It's one-christian; it's inhuman; its vile. It is the christian; it's inhuman; its vile. It is the constantly recurring old story—a gross case of mismanagement.

"Society" Disappearing. Theydar Child in Harper's Magazine for Jan aru.

In this democratic nineteenth century, society." in the old and aristocratic sen-"society." in the old and aristocratic sense of the term, is disappearing. People of a certain class and certain means do certain things at certain times because other people of the same class and the same means do likewise. There is a universal tendency toward the equalization of luxury and of the exterior manifestations of refinement. Social habits are formed on the models established by two or three great centres of civilization, and all the life that you find elsewhere is a more or less pair reflection of the real sarticle. With the increase of facilities of communication origirease of facilities of communication origi-nality of all kinds decreases, and the search for local color becomes more and mo-

Koch's Two New Discoveries. From the St. James Gazette. Sir Joseph Lister, speaking at King's College Hospital yesterday on his return from Berlin, where he has been studying the methods and investigations of Dr. Koch, gave utterance to a very remarka-ble statement. The great surgeon de-clared that, in the course of three or four ble statement. The great surgeon de-clared that, in the course of three or four weeks at the utmost, the world will be startled by two new discoveries on the part of Dr. Koch, which will transcend in importance what is properly termed the famous consumption cure. Briefly stated, Dr. Koch has apparently discovered some substance which will not Briefly stated, Dr. Koch has apparently discovered some substance which will not only cure, but prevent two of the most terrible contagious diseases known at the present time. What diseases these are is not known at present save to a very few, Sir Joseph Lister being among the fortunate ones.
